DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 1-12 drawn to an electrolyte and claims 13-24 & 37 drawn to a fuel cell are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 7/12/07.

The traversal is on the ground(s) that there is no burdensome search. This is not found persuasive because each group requires a different electrochemical constituent, which each requires its own separate burdensome search.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 25-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hirahara et al. U.S. Pub. 2006+ /0257720.

Hirahar teaches a carbonaceous fiber woven fabric suitable for use as a gas diffusion layer material for a solid polymer electrolyte fuel cell. The conductive carbonaceous fiber woven fabric contains yarns having a metric count of 16 to 120. See the Abstract. The thickness of the conductive carbonaceous fiber woven fabric is 0.05mm. See paragraph 51. The woven fabric is obtained by weaving two-folded yarns having a metric count of 40 to 60 composed of monofilaments having a diameter of 7 to 10 microns by plan weaving at a warp density and a weft density of 30 to 70 yarns per inch.

Hirahar does not expressly disclose an opening formed adjacent crossing points of the warp and weft.

However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the instant invention was made to employ openings in adjacent crossing points of the warp and weft to engage ion conductivity between electrodes of opposing polarity.
